Mystere at Treasure Island (Cirque du Soleil)

The stars of this circus are not animals, but humans, who perform superhuman feats as they take on the qualities of everything from beautiful birds to curious children. From the aerial artists on the high bar, to a puppeteer who tries to maintain order to no avail, Mystère puts a creative twist on all aspects of the traditional circus.

Show times: 7:00pm & 9:30pm

Dark: Thursday and Friday

Blue Man Group at the Luxor

The trio of Blue Men creates a visceral theatrical experience in a nonverbal production that combines performance art with cutting-edge music and custom made drums in all shapes and sizes. Blue Man Group combines the best of theater, art, music and science and wraps it into a package full of humor and energy. Wacky, witty and wonderful, Blue Man Group has something for everyone.

Terry Fator at the Mirage Hotel

Only in Vegas can you be entertained by a singing turtle, a country music singer and an Elvis impersonator all in the same show. They are just some of the characters in Terry Fator's show at the Mirage where he astounds people with his ability to do impressions of countless entertainers without ever moving his lips. His dynamic show features music and comedy that often spawns from the wacky personalities of his eight puppets. Each one has a different taste in music, showcasing Fator's ability to emulate entertainers from almost every genre. His show starts with a performance of the Etta James' hit "At Last" sung by his lovable puppet Emma Taylor. It's the same routine that won over the hearts of audiences nationwide in his debut performance on NBC's "America's Got Talent" in 2007.

Show times: 7:30pm
Dark: Friday, Saturday, and Sunday
